

all
corr.

determining an actual width of [a] an image producible by the digital video signal;

iteratively adjusting the digital video signal until the actual width equals
the expected width. END

---